Gel filtration chromatography (also known as size exclusion chromatography, molecular sieve chromatography, or gel permeation chromatography) is based on the differential distribution of the components in a sample between the mobile and stationary phases.. Specifically, in gel filtration chromatography, this differential distribution depends on the size and shape of the components.

Cholecalciferol is a form of vitamin D which is naturally synthesized in skin and functions as a pro-hormone, being converted to calcitriol. This is important for maintaining calcium levels and promoting bone health and development. As a medication, cholecalciferol may be taken as a dietary supplement to prevent or to treat vitamin D deficiency.

In this issue of Molecular Metabolism, Coskun and co-authors report the discovery and biological assessment of a novel peptide of sustained duration of action that displays agonism at the glucose-dependent insulinotropic polypeptide (GIP) and glucagon-like peptide 1 (GLP-1) receptors.

Parylene N is a polymer manufactured (chemical vapor deposited) from the p-xylylene intermediate. The p-xylylene intermediate is commonly derived from [2.2]paracyclophane. The latter compound can be synthesized from p-xylene involving several steps involving bromination, amination and Hofmann elimination.. Parylene N is an un-substituted molecule.

Although genomewide RNA expression analysis has become a routine tool in biomedical research, extracting biological insight from such information remains a major challenge. Here, we describe a powerful analytical method called Gene Set Enrichment Analysis (GSEA) for interpreting gene expression data. The method derives its power by focusing on gene sets, that is, groups of genes that share ...

From the molecular perspective, cisplatin represents a perfect example of how a small alteration in chemical structure can significantly affect biological activity in target cell (Goodsell, 2006). As illustrated in Fig. 2, cisplatin, carboplatin and oxaliplatin are composed of doubly charged platinum ion surrounded by four ligands, with the amine ligands on the left forming stronger ...
