A transatlantic flight is the flight of an aircraft across the Atlantic Ocean from Europe, Africa or the Middle East to North America, Central America, or South America, or vice versa. Such flights have been made by fixed-wing aircraft, airships, balloons and other aircraft.. Early aircraft engines did not have the reliability needed for the crossing, nor the power to lift the required fuel.

Vulnerability . If you carefully read the information on this webpage, you will learn that, although the fear of flying isn't really about the risks inherent in aviation, it is based in the uncomfortable awareness that life is fragile and vulnerable, and that none of us "much like the man in the fictitious opening story" has any real control over it, whether in the air or on the ground.
